Indic clusters the shaper leaves alone

A mark with no consonant to attach to, and a matra with nothing to sit before, are clusters the Indic shaper returns without reordering. They are still offered every feature it masks, so every glyph of them needs a mask - and asking for none of those features is what a mask of 0 says, which is what a missing one already read as. Nothing here is drawn differently for having one; the samples are held so that a change to where the masks are set, or to where the shaper returns, has to move a page to get through.

Kaputa Unicode
