Header, first line

Header, last line: red

Pseudo-classes that look at what follows an element

:last-child. The third item is red; the first two are black.

- First item
- Second item
- Third item

:nth-last-child(2). The third of four items is red.

1. One
2. Two
3. Three
4. Four

:only-child. The item alone in its list is red; the two items of the second list are black.

- Alone

- One of two
- Two of two

:last-of-type. The second paragraph is red, although a heading follows it.

First paragraph

Second paragraph

A heading after them

:nth-last-of-type(2). The first of the two paragraphs is red; the heading between them does not count.

First paragraph

A heading between

Last paragraph

:only-of-type. The heading alone of its tag is red; the paragraphs around it are black.

A paragraph

The only heading

Another paragraph

:empty. The second cell, with nothing in it, is red. The third, holding a non-breaking space, and the fourth, holding an empty span, are not. The paragraph after an empty one is red; the one after a paragraph holding a space is black, as white space is content in a browser.

Text

After an empty paragraph: red

After a paragraph holding a space: black tr:last-child td. The last row, written without a tbody, is pink.

Row one	1
Row two	2
Row three	3

td:last-child. The last cell of each row is red, whatever the number of cells in the row.

a1	a2	a3
b1, two columns		b2
c1, alone

:not(:last-child). Every item but the last is red.

- First item
- Second item
- Last item

In the page header, the second line is red. In the positioned box at the foot of the page, its last line is red.

Positioned box, first line

Positioned box, last line: red