The table after this caption has page-break-before: always in a style sheet, so page 1 holds only this heading and caption.

This red box starts on page 2. The table in it has break-before: page, so it moves to page 3, and the box is drawn again around it there.

Page 3: this table is inside the red box, below its border and padding.

Page 3: the table in this cell has page-break-before: always, which a nested table ignores. It stays in the cell.
