Page 1

The second row of this table has page-break-before: always, so page 1 holds the first row only and the second row starts page 2.

Page 1: first row	Second cell

Page 2: second row, at the top of the page	Second cell
Page 2: third row, below the second	Second cell

Page 2: the first row of this table has page-break-after: always, so its second row starts page 3. The first row has page-break-before: always too, which a first body row ignores, so this table stays on page 2 under its caption.

Page 2: first row

Page 3: second row, at the top of the page

Page 3: this table has a thead and a tfoot, written before the body. The third body row has break-before: page, so page 3 ends with the first two body rows and the footer, and page 4 starts with the header again, then the third and fourth body rows and the footer.

Heading, on pages 3 and 4	Second heading
Page 3: first body row	Second cell
Page 3: second body row	Second cell
Footer, on pages 3 and 4; its own page-break-before is ignored	Second footer cell

Heading, on pages 3 and 4	Second heading
Page 4: third body row, under the repeated header	Second cell
Page 4: fourth body row	Second cell
Footer, on pages 3 and 4; its own page-break-before is ignored	Second footer cell

Page 4: the table in this cell has a row with page-break-before: always, which a nested table ignores. Both rows stay in the cell.

Page 4: outer cell
Nested first row
Nested second row, still on page 4